The Purpose of the Aboriginal Partnership Plan

This plan has been designed to enhance engagement with Aboriginal People in the context of our City of Launceston Community Engagement Framework and Strategy.

Acknowledgement of Country

City of Launceston acknowledge Tasmanian Aboriginal People as the traditional custodians of this land, we pay respect to Elders past, present and future, as they hold the memories, traditions, culture and hope for generations to come.

We recognise and value Aboriginal histories, knowledge and lived experiences and commit to being culturally inclusive and respectful in our working relationships with Aboriginal People.

CITY OF LAUNCESTON
ABORIGINAL PARTNERSHIP PLAN
Community Engagement Strategy

Executive Summary

The City of Launceston genuinely values its relationship with local Aboriginal People and community.

We foster a strong desire and responsibility to respond to their needs. This can include advocacy and facilitation roles regarding Aboriginal cultural heritage and its contemporary expression, health, wellbeing and economic issues.

For some time now, our Council has been on a journey of understanding and learning in this space.

This is a plan to do far better in the future. A future where we will continue to listen and continue to learn.

In recent times the Council, has made a number of positive steps forward on our journey.

For the first time, the City of Launceston flies the Aboriginal flag over Town Hall - permanently.

During recent NAIDOC Week celebrations, the Aboriginal flag was joined by the Torres Strait Island flag - flying above both Town Hall and the Queen Victoria Art Gallery at Royal Park.

Importantly, we no longer support the celebration of Australia Day activities on January 26 - a day that Council recognises is distressing to many people in our community.

And we are taking steps to urge the Federal Government to release us and all other local government authorities across the country from holding citizenship ceremonies on January 26.

We believe it is important that we continue to represent the views of all members of our community, as well as finding new ways to celebrate shared pride in our country.

We need to engage more effectively with local Aboriginal People.

It is also important to acknowledge that not effectively engaging with Aboriginal People in the past has sometimes led to outcomes that have not been supported by some members of local Aboriginal People.

In short, we want this to change and we have identified a need to have a more meaningful partnership with Aboriginal People and community.

This is a significant step for Tasmania's local government sector. One that will enable us to celebrate and recognise the history, achievements and culture of Aboriginal People - because it is Australia's true and original culture.

From the Council's perspective, the Plan also provides an opportunity to learn, to gain a new understanding, to forge stronger and more meaningful relationships and to reflect on our past and future by sharing knowledge.

The Partnership Plan was developed through meaningful conversations with a range of Aboriginal People in Launceston and surrounds.

Throughout this process, a number of themes and focus areas emerged as particularly relevant and important to the development of the Plan.

Practically, we will remove the hurdles and create dialogue with Aboriginal People on proposed significant maintenance work, capital works, plans, strategies, services, policy changes and anything else that may impact on the lifestyle or amenity of Aboriginal residents.

Consistent with our Community Engagement Framework, we will focus on three key areas moving forward:

1. Continuous improvement
2. Building internal capacity
3. The communication loop

We have pledged our commitment to employing more Aboriginal People. We will seek greater truth-telling, openness and transparency in all of our dealings with Aboriginal People.

We believe it is incredibly important that we promote to the broader community just what the City of Launceston stands for in this respect. We aspire to be a respected leader of all people.

Introduction

The City of Launceston has a strong desire and responsibility to respond to the needs of Aboriginal People in the Launceston region. This can include an advocacy and facilitation role regarding Aboriginal cultural heritage and its contemporary expression, health, wellbeing and economic issues.

The Council has a sound and progressive community engagement approach which is informed by the City of Launceston's Community Engagement Framework and Community Engagement Strategy.

The objectives of the Council's Community Engagement Framework are to:

- ensure our Councillors and Council employees have a clear understanding of, and a commitment to engage with the community about decisions that will have an effect on their lives
- ensure there is a coordinated and a consistent approach to community engagement across our municipality
- ensure all community engagement strategies and activities are carried out to a high standard and are inclusive of all
- ensure the feedback from the community will be listened to, respected and taken into account
- acknowledge that as a service delivery organisation, and a monopoly provider, there is a moral obligation to enable constant dialogue.

The Council acknowledges that previous approaches have tended not to effectively engage with as large a cross-section of local Aboriginal People as we would like.

The Council wishes for this to change and has identified the need to have a meaningful partnership with local Aboriginal People, so as to improve our engagement and understanding of our respective needs and cultural requirements.

This Aboriginal Partnership Plan has been developed to form part of the Council's Community Engagement Strategy. It outlines a focused and agreed approach for the City of Launceston to engage with Aboriginal People in a culturally respectful and genuine manner.

Background

The Council's Aboriginal Partnership Plan is consistent with the approaches and practices of other levels of government which are being led by the Closing the Gap initiative.

Closing the Gap began in response to a call for governments to commit to achieving equality for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People in health and life expectancy within a generation. The priorities of the initiative have changed over time and so Closing the Gap (2020) has evolved from health and life expectancy measures to overcome inequality faced by too many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People so their life outcomes are equal to all Australians.

Under this initiative there has been a greater focus on partnerships between governments and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People. At the centre of this new way of working is local action, and a determination to achieve change.

As governments work in this new way, there is increasing involvement and support for local communities to set their own priorities and tailor services to their unique contexts. In a commitment to devolving decision-making as close to the ground as possible, Aboriginal community leaders are directly involved in making recommendations to government about how services and funding align with community priorities.

Consistent with these priorities, the Tasmanian Government released its Closing the Gap - Tasmanian Implementation Plan 2021-2023, which, according to the former Premier's opening statement, is aimed at supporting and strengthening a partnership between the State Government and Tasmanian Aboriginal People. Then Premier Peter Gutwein said:

"Tasmanian Aboriginal People are best placed to determine and deliver services to meet their needs and cultural requirements".

The Closing the Gap - Tasmanian Implementation Plan focuses on embedding broad actions aligned to four key Priority Reforms across the work of the Tasmanian Government:

Priority Reform One:

Formal partnership and shared decision-making

Priority Reform Two:

Building the communities-controlled sector

Priority Reform Three:

Transforming government organisations

Priority Reform Four:

Shared access to data and information at the regional level

Underpinning Tasmania's Closing the Gap partnership are four principles of:

1. inclusiveness, ensuring all perspectives are heard, respected and acknowledged appropriately as decisions are made
2. genuine shared decision-making, including transparent negotiations and transparent data sharing;
3. the views, needs, interests and aspirations of Tasmanian Aboriginal People is central in all decision-making; and
4. the development and growth of partnerships, including Aboriginal partnerships, in accordance with the strong partnership principles outlined in the National partnership Agreement on Closing the Gap.

This Partnership Plan has been developed to reflect these principles and ensure that Aboriginal People have a strong relationship and voice with the City of Launceston.

Our Partnership Approach

Aims

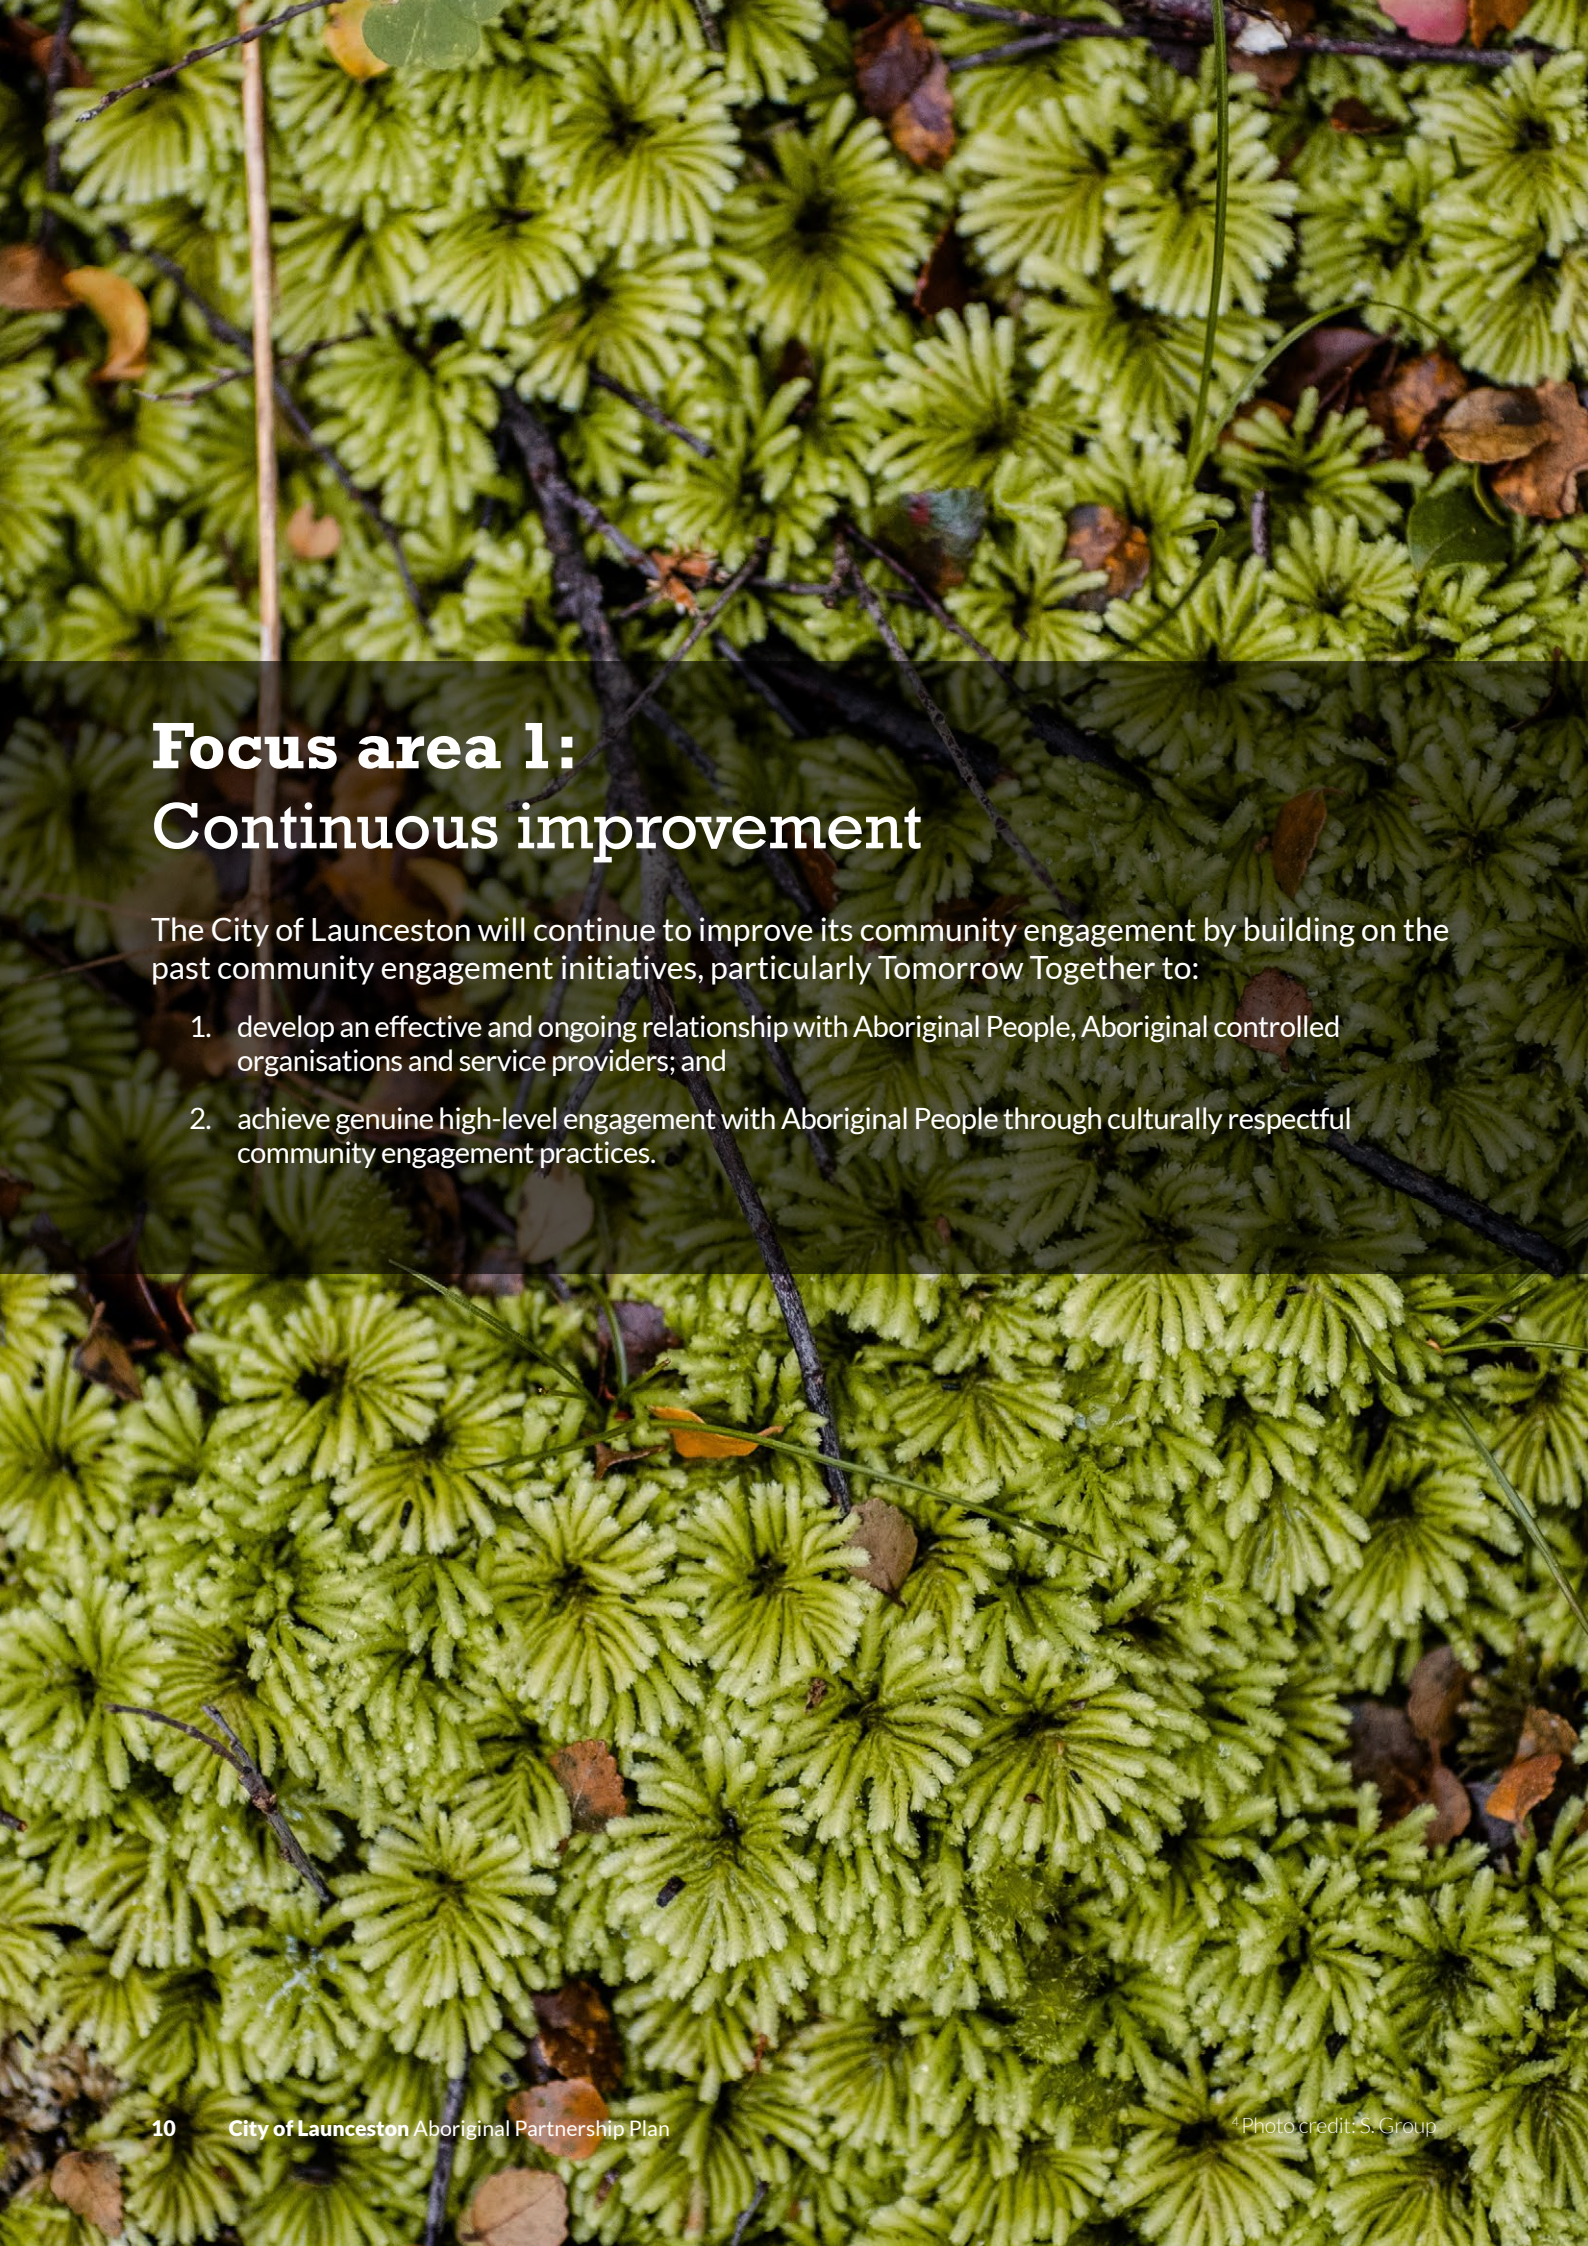

The aims of this Aboriginal Partnership Plan are to strengthen our community engagement strategy to ensure that:

1. the Council is able to effectively engage with Aboriginal People in a culturally respectful and genuine manner;
2. the views, needs, interests and aspirations of Aboriginal People is central in the Council's decision-making;
and
3. the Council promotes what the Plan stands for.

Focus area 3: The communication loop

The communication loop aligns with Council's Community Engagement Framework and its actions. Through the communication loop, Council will improve its feedback and input methods for communicating with local Aboriginal People and will influence the Council's future strategic direction and actions.

To make this possible, the Council will:

1. make it clear from the commencement of any engagement process which parts of the matter or issue are negotiable and which parts are non-negotiable;
2. ensure there is a process by which community input feeds into the decision-making process; and
3. report back to the community showing how its input has been used or how it will be used moving forward.
